FUND MANAGER COMMENT

Thanks to a strong rally of the equity markets, the performance of our funds improved well this month. January marks the beginning of a transition period in the accommodating policies of the European and American Central Banks. Caution is required until growth stabilizes in Europe and inflation comes back in the United States. Reopening negotiations between Beijing and Washington were well received. On the corporate side, earnings season is now launched with good news for our funds.

On a sector point of view, our monthly performance benefited from our exposure in industrial stocks, and our underweight of the telecommunication sector. Inversely, our low exposure to financial stocks was a negative contributor.

A few companies negatively contributed to the fund performance. Henkel (-6.7%) published mixed 2018 results; they expect lower margins in 2019 due to investments increase and a more difficult environment. Thales (-5.2%) weighting, after a very strong year, was significantly reduced in our portfolio in 2018. The French company suffered in January, partly because of a slowdown of its 2019 growth, but also because of the pending integration of Gemalto, expected to happen in the first quarter.

Regarding positive contributors, Alten (+15.1%) published results that exceeded expectations for the fourth quarter of 2018, and expects 2019 to be characterized with organic growth plus its external growth program. Jeronimo Martins (+19.6%) reported a good pick up in 2018 sales, driven by the momentum of the Portuguese market.
